

INTERVENTION

What is an intervention?

Most people think that an intervention can only take place when an addict hits rock bottom. This is a common misperception. The problem with this thinking is that as the addicted individual plunges toward his/her bottom, so does the family, friends and co-workers—needlessly.

An intervention is where the addicted person is presented with the realities of their situation in a kind, compassionate manner. This presentation is commonly done in a group setting. Individual efforts to address addiction issues are usually met with false promises and no results.

How can ExecuCare ARC help with an intervention?

Organizing an intervention can be an exhausting and complicated process. It takes time and research to find the right person to facilitate an intervention that is right for your situation. The staff at ExecuCare ARC understands this and can provide you with a professional who has the resources to assist you immediately.

Each situation requires a tailored approach and immediate answers. ExecuCare ARC can provide that assistance:

Who is Susan Rosovsky?

Susan Rosovsky is a board registered interventionist and founder of ProActive Interventions. She enjoys helping families break free of the chains of mental illness and substance abuse. She understands that most often your loved one may have experienced trauma and/or have co-occurring disorders such as anxiety, depression, ADHD, etc. She also respects that most families have tried everything in their power to help those they love. She offers you professionally licensed guidance in psychiatric & addiction based on her experience working with impaired professionals, students, adults, prisoners, those with learning disorders & their family members too.
